Granite is known to be used for art and architecture for centuries now. A host of magnificent monuments around the world stand as testimony of the beauty of granite stones.

Thunder White is granite quarried in the south of India. The characters across the slab look like a sea with shades of grey and specks of burgundy. This gives a sleek and fresh ambience in any applied environment.

When you buy a slab of granite, you bring a piece of history home. Granite stones are naturally beautiful because they are designed by none other than the nature itself.

Because no two natural stones slabs are alike, it grants exclusivity and uniqueness to every surface where it is adorned.
